

Sweet Potato

Ibaraki Prefecture is Japan's major sweet potato producing region in terms of production area and volume. Abundant in gently sloping and well-drained fields with red soil, the Rokko region of the prefecture, in particular, is the best place for growing sweet potatoes. Our state-of-the-art storage technology enables the steady shipment of tasty sweet potatoes all year round. The sweet potato varieties produced in Ibaraki Prefecture are called Beniharuka, Silk Sweet, and Beniazuma.
